Together Everyone Achieves More
Issue 29

Dear Parents and Carers

Wow, it is the end of yet another term! It has been lovely that the temperature has returned to something more approaching summer finally, and we hope that we are going to all get to enjoy some sunshine in the holidays!

We recognise at Curwen that fidget toys can be very helpful for many children to help them to concentrate in school. As such, we have invested in 'SHINE trolleys' in all of our classrooms, which hold a variety of items for all children to have free access to. We therefore request that children do not bring personal fidget toys into school. This has caused upset and arguments when things have become lost or broken. We are also concerned about the financial burden this places on parents and carers as children try to keep up with their friends. If children bring such things to school, the teacher will put it away and return at the end of the day. Thank you for your support with this.

This week, our lovely year 2s have been completing SATs tests. These are now 'optional' tests which we do to assess how well the children have done by the end of KS2. We try to keep it as stress-free as possible, and the children have been amazing! We are so proud of how hard they have worked, and that they have been so resilient. Well done year 2!

As you will know, next week is our half term holiday. There is lots of information on our website about free activities in London, and we add anything we are sent about local activities on there too - <https://www.curwen.newham.sch.uk/page/?title=Local+Holiday+Activities&pid=459>

Over the holidays, we wish Eid Mubarak to all of our Muslim staff and families. We hope you have a wonderful time celebrating. We hope that everyone manages to enjoy the break and that we have some lovely sunshine!

Curwen Primary School
Achieves Your School
Games Platinum Award

Curwen Primary School has once again affirmed its status as a leader in primary physical education by earning the Your School Games Platinum Award for the 2025/26 academic year. This achievement is especially noteworthy as it represents eight consecutive years of upholding the highest level of recognition within the School Games framework.

The sustained retention of this prestigious award for nearly a decade is no mere coincidence; it is a testament to the relentless dedication and hard work of the Curwen PE Team. Their commitment extends well beyond the standard curriculum, ensuring that physical activity is intricately integrated into the daily school experience.
